

Steam project „Snowflakes dance“

We talked with the children about the prevailing weather in Lithuania. We decided to try and create a snowstorm. The children added oil to a glass, and mixed white paint with a spoonful of water in another container. The paint was poured into a glass with oil. We broke the effervescent tablet into several pieces and dropped one piece at a time into a glass of liquid. Then we watched the storm in the glass. When the effervescent tablet is dropped, it sinks to the bottom and begins to dissolve.
